CRESCENT CREATIVE STROKES- MUD MAGIC

Introduction

The CCS Workshop: Mud Magic, a pottery event in collaboration with Studio Pottery Paradise, was an exciting experience for all our students. Rasitha, the President of CCS, greeted everyone warmly and gave a brief introduction about pottery before starting the session. Jiyaad, our Secretary, then recited a Qiraat, giving the event a more spiritual feel. We took a moment to honour and to express our gratitude to Dr.Karthikeyan , Dean(Student Affairs), Dr.E.Syed Mohamed, and Ms. Nidhi Arun from CCS for their outstanding contributions. Dr.Karthikeyan Sir inspired us all with his perspective observations about the value of maintaining traditional artistic forms. Dr.E.Syed Mohamed, CCS-Faculty coordinator gave the importance of SDG Goals and objectives of the Workshop and Climate change awareness. Mr.Noor Hammna gave a brief introduction to Studio Pottery Paradise, highlighting Ms. Nidhi Arun's accomplishments as the Owner and Founder. Finally, the workshop officially commenced under the guidance of Ms. Nidhi Arun, igniting our passion for pottery and creativity. The primary goal of this session was to promote a greater comprehension and admiration of the cultural customs of our state among the participants.

MUD MAGIC:

The workshop commenced with the participants focused and dedicated on pursuing artistic endeavours. Through hands-on experiences, participants explored the fundamentals of pottery, experimenting with coil, pinch, and slab techniques to craft their unique pieces, using sun dried terracotta clay.

Under the guidance of seasoned instructors, students turned the clay into artistic pieces, each reflected the imprint of their individual creativity. As students used their fingers to create designs on the soft clay, detailed patterns were made. The workshop was filled with the sound of the students working imaginatively, expressing their feelings via shape of the clay and creating one-of-a-kind pieces with distinct styles.

The highlight and the most fascinating feature of the workshop was the pottery wheel. Here, the students embraced the challenge of transforming their abstract concepts into real, three-dimensional sculptures by using concentrated effort and skilled techniques. They shaped the clay with their hands under the expert supervision, making the clay become beautiful art. The pulsating sound of the pottery wheel demonstrated how students worked together to make great clay pieces, showcasing their imagination and commitment.

As the workshop concluded, a certificate distribution ceremony was held to formally recognize those who attended, for their enthusiastic participation and involvement throughout in gaining proficiency in a novel domain. A heartfelt vote of thanks was delivered, extending gratitude to our institute and Studio Pottery Paradise for their unwavering support and commitment to mentoring the exploration of an indigenous art form.

Feedback from the beneficiaries:

The participants were highly engaged throughout the workshop, commending its interactive format and expressing a desire for more time allocated to wheel pottery. They particularly enjoyed the hands-on experience and expressed a keen interest in furthering their skills through trial and error. Some of the feedbacks are:

1. "It was a very interactive session. Loved it. One thing I personally found lacking was the time given for each person to make their actual wheel pottery. I would have loved even more time, and given an opportunity to be able to learn it myself, after trial and errors.
2. Awesome, a great initiative and a step forward for both the students and CCS. Can't wait for the next event.
3. It is very good workshop...my hands are relaxed and stress free mind after doing this activity. thank you so much for conducting and bringing our culture back. soon farming culture activity also expected.
4. The big worries about the new generation is that they distance a lot from the nature and society while aspiring for skills through education. This kind of workshops are really a good platform to improve their social interaction and to stretch their creativity and imagination. I appreciate it a lot. Thanks for the co-ordinators.
5. That's a very perfect skill as students can learn how to convert unshaped object in to a proper shaped and useful objects. This, they can apply in their life to frame their career to the best.
6. It develops the students skills

Conclusion:

In conclusion, the CCS Workshop: Mud Magic, a Pottery Workshop, demonstrated the transformative power of art and creativity. Students discovered the power of their imagination by working with clay. As they shaped and made things, they didn't just create beautiful objects; they also made lasting memories. The workshop serves as a light that inspires creativity and pushes students towards a future filled with art. Just like clay changes under the artist's hand, our students develop and adapt via the creative process, just like clay does under the artist's influence.

This report encapsulates the essence of the CCS Workshop: Mud Magic, a Pottery Workshop, celebrating the fusion of artistry, skill, and passion that defined the event.

By addressing these interconnected aspects of well-being, the event sought to raise awareness, break stigmas, and provide valuable resources to students. The event was marked by insightful sessions, engaging discussions, and an unprecedented level of student participation.

Event Proceedings:

The event commenced with the solemn recitation of Quirath and its translation, setting a contemplative and spiritual tone. This was followed by the rendition of Tamizh Thai Vaazhthu, instilling a deep sense of cultural pride among attendees. A series of felicitations honored the distinguished guests, acknowledging their contributions to the field of health and well-being. Their presence reinforced the significance of the topics discussed and underscored the importance of raising awareness on such vital issues.

The highlight of the event was an engaging and thought-provoking panel discussion, introduced by Dr. R. Karthikeyan, Dean of Student Affairs. The discussion was guided by hosts Karthika and Ashima who skillfully facilitated a meaningful exchange between the panelists and the audience.

The panel featured an esteemed lineup of experts who provided invaluable insights on various dimensions of health and societal well-being:

Mrs. Swapna Babu (Co-founder Swapna Mastermind Academy, Child Psychologist, Acupuncturist, Parental Coach, Reiki Healer) shared her expertise on mental health, specifically addressing the silent struggles associated with depression. She highlighted the importance of early recognition of symptoms, seeking professional help, and providing emotional support to those in distress. Her insights emphasized the necessity of breaking the stigmas surrounding mental health and promoting an environment where open discussions are encouraged.

Mrs. Priyanka Baskar (Counseling Psychologist, Writer & Social Activist) shed light on the pervasive issue of gender stereotypes. She elaborated on how deeply ingrained societal biases affect both men and women, limiting their opportunities and shaping their identities. Through compelling narratives and real-world examples, she urged the audience to challenge these stereotypes and advocate for gender equality.

Dr. Deepthi Jammi (Director, Jammi Scans; Obstetrician, Gynecologist) addressed widespread misconceptions about menstrual health and hygiene. She discussed the cultural taboos surrounding menstruation and emphasized the importance of education in dismantling these stigmas. Her talk encouraged young individuals to prioritize reproductive health and understand the biological and medical aspects of menstrual wellness.

Mrs. Elakanna Pandian delivered an enlightening session on the intricate relationship between food, nutrition, and emotions. She explained how dietary choices significantly impact mental and emotional well-being. Additionally, she discussed how external influences, such as peer pressure, often lead individuals towards substance abuse and unhealthy dietary habits. Her talk emphasized the necessity of mindful eating and maintaining a balanced diet for overall well-being.

A representative from the Narcotics Control Bureau, Chennai, presented a compelling discussion on drug addiction, its devastating personal and societal consequences, and preventive measures. Through real-life case studies and statistical data, the speaker underscored the growing menace of drug abuse among youth and the critical need for awareness and intervention programs. The presentation left a lasting impact on the audience, driving home the urgency of addressing substance abuse issues in educational institutions and communities.

The panelists shared personal experiences, research findings, and practical advice, making the discussion highly engaging and informative. Audience members were encouraged to participate actively by submitting queries through a QR code displayed on the screen. Unlike conventional seminars, this event fostered an open and interactive environment where students felt comfortable asking questions and sharing their thoughts. The use of a QR code system for submitting queries ensured that even those hesitant to speak publicly could participate. The diverse range of questions from the audience further enriched the discussions, allowing for a more in-depth exploration of the topics covered.

Students also had the opportunity to network with the experts, gaining deeper insights and personalized advice. The event's inclusive nature made it a safe space for discussing sensitive issues such as mental health, substance abuse, and gender bias. Many students expressed their appreciation for the initiative, stating that the event provided them with newfound awareness and motivation to take proactive steps in their own well-being and advocacy efforts.
